Prices Rise 0.3%...

Worker's Buying Power Clobbered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average worker's buying power was clobbered last month by the highest rise in grocery prices in a generation and by steep new social security taxes.

As January's cost of living rose 0.3 per cent the average worker's buying power declined 1.1 per cent, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

It was the third straight monthly decline in purchasing power and the biggest monthly drop in 2½ years. It cancelled much of the wage gains made in the last year.

The stark figures could spell headaches for President Nixon's Phase 3 wage controls because unions this year are negotiating new contracts for some five million workers in such key industries as auto manufacturing, railroads, trucking, rubber, clothing and retail trade.

Last month's 0.3 per cent rise in the cost of living is larger when adjusted for the fact that prices usually go down in January. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the seasonally adjusted increase was 0.5 per cent.

Most of the increase is concentrated in grocery prices, which consumers feel most keenly. These went up 2.5 per cent, or 2.3 per cent seasonally adjusted. This was the biggest monthly jump since the BLS began keeping separate figures on grocery prices in 1952.

Prices for items other than food, including clothing and used cars, actually fell 0.5 per cent in January. This was normal for this time of year, so the seasonally adjusted figures showed no change.

Prices for services continued their steady creep upward, rising 0.2 per cent.

The cost-of-living increase put the consumer price index for January at 127.7, which means it cost $12.77 to buy a cross-section of goods and services that cost $10 in 1958.

The average worker's weekly pay for January remained nearly level at $138.35. At the same time, social security taxes increased from 5.2 per cent to 5.85 per cent, taking 65 cents more from every $100 paycheck.

As a result, the average rank-and-file production worker's buying power, meaning his after-tax pay, reduced by inflation, went down 1.1 per cent last month. It had declined 0.2 per cent in December and 0.3 per cent in November after showing mostly steady gains for three years.

Last November workers had 5.1 per cent more buying power than they had enjoyed a year earlier. But last month their year's gain had shriveled to 1 per cent.

Laos Truce Broken; Communists Attack

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — War-torn Laos on Thursday officially entered a declared ceasefire, but reliable sources reported what appeared to be a general offensive spearheaded by about 65,000 North Vietnamese troops.

The North Vietnamese shelled towns and government positions in northern and southern Laos, the sources said, and moved into areas never before held by their allies, the Pathet Lao guerrilla forces.

Two government towns fell to the enemy and another, Khonh Sedone in the south, was threatened. Government troops were retreating in several areas.

In Vientiane, Premier Souvanna Phouma charged Friday that the Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese had committed 29 major violations of the ceasefire.

He said he would ask for renewed U.S. air cover if the violations continued. U.S. air strikes ended at midday.

HEARING ON ERA... attracts large crowd and signs to Capitol rotunda.

ERA Hearing Debate Lengthy

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Quoting the Bible, the Constitution and Richard Proud, 49 witnesses Thursday marched before a legislative committee, an overflow Statehouse crowd and the television cameras to argue the merits of the equal rights amendment.

After more than four hours of testimony watched or heard by an estimated 1,000 persons who spilled out of the legislative chamber into the Capitol rotunda, the committee adjourned without taking action on the issue.

Facing the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee is Resolution 9. Speaker Proud's bid to repeal the 1972 Legislature's ratification of the equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

That amendment guarantees equality of rights under the law for women. Amendment 'A Lie' Proud says the amendment (ERA) is "a lie." The amendment "really means equal obligations" for women and the denial of all privileges, he declared.

Supporters of Proud's resolution began arriving at the Statehouse at noon, occupying most of the balcony space two hours before the hearing began. ERA supporters later filled most of the back and sides of the legislative chamber.

Perhaps 90% of the audience was female, both young and old. Some carried signs, among them one which insisted: "Let Me Have the Privilege of Being a Woman."

The invasion, dreaded for weeks by many senators, set the stage for an eventual floor confrontation over the increasingly volatile issue.

Hearing Plagued Perhaps a portent of things to come, the hearing was plagued by faulty microphones and deafening oratory. Even Committee Chairman Ernest Chambers' car—which, he noted, was "made by men"—broke down on the way to the scene, delaying his arrival by nearly one-half hour.

Cable television cameras covered the event live, and educational television cameras decided on their own to tape the event for possible future use on the network.

One of the long hearing's most

Temple Discovered
Cairo (AP) — A temple bearing the name of Pharaoh Rameses II, who reigned in Egypt from 1292-1225 B.C., has been discovered 74 miles south of Cairo.

attentive listeners was a fourth-grade student perched on the sidelines with a Coke. "I like Chambers," he said. "He looks like a boxer."

Sneaked Through Proud said the ERA ratification resolution "sneaked through" the 1972 Legislature before senators realized its long-range impact. "My sin now," he said, "is exposing this to the public."

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, a committee member, urged his colleagues to send the resolution to the floor for full debate even though, he said, he will continue to support the ERA amendment.

Oklahoma City attorney Lana Tyree said women are now fully protected by the Constitution, and said she could cite 181 cases in which laws have been voided on the basis of sex discrimination.

"Isn't the 14th Amendment good enough?" she asked.

"Does equality require rigid sameness?"

"Not A Toy"

The U.S. Constitution is "not a toy," to be played with, she suggested, and she has "no desire to descend into a legally sexless society."

ERA would make women eligible for a military draft, including combat duty, and wipe out any privileges they may now hold in domestic relations, property or inheritance laws, she said.

Jaquie Davison of San Diego, national chairman of Happiness of Womanhood (HOW), said "man is divinely ordained to be the ruler of the home," and ERA takes the form of "a major attack on the family."

Women would lose all "financial security," she said.

Lost Womanhood Elena Wiedurvil of Ralston, a native Cuban, said ERA has "a great similarity to proposals (for equality) under a socialist system." In Castro's Cuba, she said, women were accorded equal rights and "they lost their womanhood."

Bernadine Johnson of Omaha, speaking for the Women of Industry of Nebraska, said the amendment denies obvious physical differences. Absolute equality will come the day that "men give birth to children," she suggested.

Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, opposing the resolution, said ERA is "a good thing for men and women," and especially for women who need to or choose to work outside the home.

"Full Knowledge"

Former Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, who guided the ERA resolution through the 1972 session, said all 49 senators, including Proud, signed it "with full knowledge and approval."

Proud, Mrs. Anne Patrick Trombley of Lincoln suggested, "voted four times (last year) for an amendment which he now says 'would allow rape to go unpunished and put pregnant women on the front line.'"

If he really did that, she said.

he is "deserving of a retirement and a long rest."

Not More Willing

As for herself, Mrs. Trombley said, she is "not more willing to see my son march into combat than myself."

James Henry, executive director of the Omaha Housing Authority, said he suspects financial support for the national drive to stop ratification of ERA is coming from "those to whom equal pay for women is anathema."

Omaha attorney Tom Walsh said all legal precedent indicates that ratification, once voted, cannot be repealed. "This Legislature should have better things to do," he said.

Other Supporters

Among other supporters of ERA, who opposed Proud's resolution, were Republican National Committeewoman Patricia Lahr Smith of Lincoln, Democratic National Committeewoman Frances Ohmsted of Guide Rock and Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas of Lincoln.

Other ERA supporters included spokesmen for the League of Women Voters of Nebraska, The American Association of University Women and the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

"Well, you've heard from all the liberals... all the people who believe in abortion," Proud concluded in bringing the event to an end.

LTS Board Backs Permanent Routes

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Deciding that buses traveling through residential areas do not constitute a safety hazard to small children and motorists, the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) Board Thursday recommended that eight bus routes be given permanent status.

Routes approved following a heated public hearing include Bethany, Irving School, Trendwood and South, Havelock, Eastridge, Crosstown, Gaslight Village-West A and Arapahoe.

A second public hearing is scheduled March 5 before the City Council, at which time the council will act upon the board's recommendations.

By giving the green light to the routes as proposed by a subcommittee, the board overruled objections listed by Trendwood property owners.

Mark Hammer, 1810 So. 77th, presented a petition signed by more than 25 residents objecting to routing the Trendwood and South bus along So. 77th.

Instead, Hammer said the residents wanted the bus removed from the residential street, contending that buses constitute a traffic and safety hazard to children and the driving public alike.

When asked by board member Bob Campbell why residents considered buses unsafe, Terry Sullivan 1715 So. 77th replied, "They have schedules to meet—and naturally, they're going to think of keeping their schedules before safety."

Although a parade of witnesses testified objecting to the routing, an equal number of residents argued for that routing.

Max Drier, 1901 So. 77th, suggested that the attitude of some of his neighbors seems to be "Yes, we want bus service—but don't put it down my street."

Nancy Dreier presented a petition signed by 16 East High School students requesting the proposed routing, said, "We need this bus to get to work and to town."

In approving the Trendwood and South route Campbell said, "I can see where the safety issue is a real concern—but I don't believe their arguments are valid."

Several people living in the Irving School route neighborhood also objected to routing that bus along Prescott from 33rd to 36th. Residents cited safety hazards to children.

However, other residents said they favored the route as outlined by LTS.

The only alteration made by the Board concerned the Arapahoe route. The board agreed to try running the buses through the Treasure City and WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China Thursday took a major step toward full diplomatic relations with the establishment of liaison offices in each nation's capital.

The development was announced in a communique released simultaneously in Washington and Peking to reflect "the progress that has been made" since President Nixon visited the mainland a year ago.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen the agreement worked out in his recent trip to Peking is an important step toward normalization of relations with the Communist regime.

And he said the President's China trip started the two nations toward a better understanding.

"After the end of the war in Vietnam, and in these discussions in Peking, we were able to begin to travel some of these roads, and to move from the attempt to eliminate the obstructions and the mistrust to some more concrete and positive achievements," he said.

Kissinger said his discussions with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai in Peking this week covered four major areas:

—The desirability of normalization of relations.

—The desirability of reducing the danger of military conflict.

—The affirmation by both sides that neither would seek hegemony in the Pacific area.

—And each of them opposed the attempt of anyone else to achieve it, and that the relations between China and the United States would never be directed against any third country.

Because of the progress toward better relations, Kissinger said, it was decided "that the existing channel in Paris (the designated contact point for previous relations) was inadequate and that, therefore, each side would establish a liaison office in the capital of the other."

This office falls short of embassy or mission status, but its personnel will have diplomatic immunity and privileges, including the right to send coded private messages to its government.

Kissinger said the offices "would handle trade as well as all other matters, except the strictly formal diplomatic aspects of the relationship."

The announcement was hailed by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., as "an accomplishment which really astounds me" but Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asked "Why must we be content with progress that is too little and too slow?" Kennedy said progress is being hampered by "the foolish fiction we continue to maintain, that somehow the government of Chiang Kai-Shek on Taiwan is the government of China on the mainland."

As a sign of the good will generated by Kissinger's nearly 20 hours of talks with Chinese leaders in Peking, the mainland government agreed to release with the next two months two U.S. military prisoners: Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn and Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith.

Smith was shot down in 1965 while flying a Vietnam-related mission, while Flynn was captured during a similar flight in 1967.

Kissinger also indicated a third American held by the Chinese, CIA agent John Downey, might be freed in the second half of 1973.

Downey was captured during the Korean War on a clandestine flight over the Chinese mainland and sentenced to 30 years in prison. That term later was reduced to a five-year period ending in 1976.

The Chinese told Kissinger Downey's case would be reviews in light of his good behavior.

Kissinger also announced a series of cultural, athletic, scientific and educational exchanges to take place in the next year or two.

And he said the Chinese had indicated their willingness to exchange journalists in the future.

Kissinger reaffirmed the diplomatic alliance maintained with the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan and he said the "level of our troops on Taiwan is not the subject of negotiation."

There exists no immediate plan for any withdrawal.

Kissinger also took pains to reassure Japan that it is not threatened by the easing of tensions between the United States and Peking.

"We have always believed that the friendship with Japan is an integral part of our foreign policy," Kissinger stated.

Mr. B's IGA parking lot, as requested by 109 people living in the area.

Campbell noted that the managers of both businesses have agreed to let the buses use the lot.

In other action the board agreed to increase weekend (bus) service. Buses will start running the same schedules on Saturdays and Sundays as operated during the week.

A six-month trial will be given to the schedule change. At the end of that period, a public hearing will be held to help decide whether or not that change should become permanent.

Starting about March 1, bus riders will be able to use tokens instead of change for bus fare.

No discount will be given on the regular 30-cent charge. Tokens will be sold on the buses and at some businesses.

Rae also reported that it would cost around $13,000 to put the damaged minibus back in operation. The repair bill would be higher than the original $10,500 paid for the vehicle. The bus was involved in a traffic accident last month.

The board then recommended that Rae salvage as many parts as possible for use on the remaining three minibuses and that he look into the purchase of another vehicle.

Farmers Face Troubled Times After Profitable 1973

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are going to have another good year for profits but there may be some troubled times ahead, say Agriculture Department economists.

Net farm income last year was a record $19.2 billion. Profits will be down in 1973 but still will be close to the $19 billion mark the second highest on record.

Economists presented their views at a National Agricultural Outlook Conference here this week. The meeting, which drew several hundred state and county farm officials and others, ended Thursday.

Farm exports, viewed by Nixon administration strategists as a key to farm prosperity, are currently riding a remarkable wave expected to total $11.1 billion for the year ending June 30.

That would be a $3 billion jump from the previous high set in 1971-72 and was triggered by massive grain sales last summer to the Soviet Union. Further sales to Japan and other traditional markets, plus trade beginnings with Red China, have helped.

Although much depends on how much Russia buys from now on, USDA officials think farm exports will decline some next year.

Our basic forecast is for farm prices and income to continue strong at least through 1973 and possibly part of 1974," C. Kyle Randall, chairman of the department's outlook and situations board, told the conference.

"This raises at least the strong possibility of a break in farm prices and incomes in 1974 compared with 1972 and expectations for 1973."

To meet rising expenses ranging from land purchases to new machinery, farmers will borrow an additional $4 billion this year. By next Jan. 1, economist Carson D. Evans told the conference, total farm debt outstanding will be $75.8 billion, an 8 per cent increase in one year.

But Don Paarlberg, director of economics for the department, said the old notion that the farmer works to be debt-free and to own his land outright may be dead.

"It may be impossible for the ordinary family farmer to achieve debt-free status during his lifetime, starting with low equity," Paarlberg said.

Arab Spokesmen Call For Retaliation Against Israel

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab spokesmen called on Thursday for retaliation against Israel for its downing of a Libyan airliner with the loss of more than 100 lives.

Western officials expressed fear that the incident would hurt chances for an Arab-Israeli settlement. Official Soviet news media charged the Israelis had shot the plane down for that very purpose.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, at the United Nations, urged "the most thorough investigation of the circumstances" surrounding what he termed "one of the most shocking incidents in the history of civil aviation."

Egypt sent a request for an investigation to the International Civil Aviation Organization, a specialized U.N. agency in Montreal and one is expected to follow.

Pope Paul VI sent a telegram to Libyan leader Muammar Kadhafi expressing severe disapproval of Israel's "tragic attack" on the plane.

The International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva said its delegates had received Israel's permission to visit the survivors in a Beersheba hospital.

Egyptian Deputy Prime Minister Abdel Kader Hatem, at a Cairo news conference, said the attack on a clearly marked and unarmed civilian plane was "one of the most cowardly barbaric acts ever committed."

Economist: Price Controls Lead To Overcharging of Patients

Washington (AP) — Federal price controls on hospitals are fostering multimillion dollar "cost overruns" on patient bills, a former government economist told the Cost of Living Council Thursday.

A Ernest Fitzgerald fired in 1970 as a Pentagon cost analyst after blowing the whistle on cost overruns on the C-5A cargo plane joined two nonprofit organizations in asking the council for more effective price controls on hospitals.

Statistical rationalization of ever-increasing prices for hospital care is reminiscent of similar pricing maneuvers at the Pentagon," Fitzgerald said.

The petitioners said hospital daily charges last year increased 11.6 per cent, or nearly twice the administration's goal of 6.5 per cent under the Phase 2 economic program.

The result they said in a statement was that "consumers were obliged to pay over $745.2 million unnecessarily.

Under the formula governing hospital cost increases an institution could reduce expensive in-patient caseloads, increase less voluminous and less expensive out-patient caseloads, and apply higher prices over all and stay within acceptable limits, they said.

The petition urges the council to place a 6 per cent ceiling on each hospital service, as well as daily charges in place of the complicated formula.

The Internal Revenue Service form now in effect "significantly contributes to otherwise illegal price increases," the petitioners said.

The form requires a revenue adjustment that permits hospitals to actually raise prices above Phase 3 permissible levels but nevertheless avoid price exception requests," they said.

Nixon Promises Tax Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending doubts about his plans, President Nixon told Congress Thursday that he will submit a tax-reform bill this year.

In his State of the Union message on the economy, Nixon dealt with the subject in only one sentence: "I shall recommend a tax program that builds further reforms on those we achieved in 1969 and 1971."

His administration has been studying tax-reform legislation intensively in recent months but, up to now, it has never been certain the administration would offer its own recommendations. In both 1969 and 1971, Congress approved reform legislation that cut taxes substantially. Now, the focus in Congress is on closing so-called loopholes in the tax code.

Nixon also said he would send bills to provide property-tax relief for the elderly, provide an income tax credit for tuition paid to private elementary and secondary schools, and to give him more power to change tariffs.

He said bills would be submitted to improve the nation's private pension system, the unemployment compensation law, minimum wage laws and "the manner in which we deal with our transportation system."

In each instance Nixon held back the details. But he was expansive on a key recommendation—holding back growth of the federal budget. He urged adoption of an annual spending ceiling by Congress—$289 billion in fiscal 1974 and $288 billion in fiscal 1975.

"The stakes are high," he said. "If we do not restrain spending and if my recommended cuts are reversed, it would take a 15 per cent increase in income taxes to pay for the additional expenditures."

It was the first time the President put a figure on the magnitude of the tax increase he thinks would be needed if the federal budget got out of control.

He came straight to the question raised by members of Congress on the spending-ceiling proposal: That it violates the principle of separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches.

"We should never, of course, lose our sharp concern for maintaining constitutional balances," Nixon wrote. "But we should never overlook the fact that we have joint responsibilities as well as separate powers."

He added, "There are many areas in which the President and the Congress should and must work together in behalf of all the people—and the level of spending, since it directly affects the pocketbooks of every family in the land, is one of the most critical."

Nixon said he has carried out his pledge not to recommend programs that would require a tax increase and trigger inflationary pressures.

"Now it is up to the Congress to match these efforts with a spending ceiling of its own," he said.

No other recommendation is more important, he said.

The bulk of the President's message closely paralleled his nationwide radio talk Wednesday. Some of the language was identical.

"I am pleased to report that our economic prospects are very bright," Nixon said. He called the nation's job picture "very encouraging."

Although the jobless rate among young people and women has dropped, he said, "It is also much too high and constitutes a great waste for our nation."

He said that as the nation moves "into a new era of peacetime prosperity, our economic system is going to have room—indeed, is going to have need—for nearly every available hand."

Nixon Supports Equal Rights Amendment

Washington (AP) — President Nixon voiced support Thursday for the proposed equal rights amendment now before the states for ratification and declared that expansion of economic opportunity for women is essential.

Nixon, who has supported the amendment previously but has made no comment on it since last November's election, voiced support for it in an economic report sent to Congress Thursday.

Private Utility Must Sell To Public System

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Thursday that antitrust laws require investor-owned electric utilities to sell and to transfer power to municipal and other publicly owned power systems.

The 4 to 3 decision was handed down in a civil suit brought by the Justice Department against Otter Tail Power Co., a privately owned utility headquartered in Fergus Falls, Minn., and serving 465 towns in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Justice William O. Douglas, in the majority opinion, said Otter Tail violated the Sherman Act by using its monopoly power to try to prevent communities in which its retail distribution franchise had expired from replacing it with a municipal distribution system.

Therefore, he said, Chief U.S. District Judge Edward J. Devitt of St. Paul acted properly in requiring the company to sell power at wholesale to existing or proposed municipal power systems and to "wheel" power over its lines from competitors to them.

U.S. Rests Pentagon Papers Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The government conditionally rested its case against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo Thursday but said it would present last-minute testimony next Tuesday about fingerprints flown here from Saigon.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne allowed the unusual move to reserve last testimony. He told the jurors: "Other than the reservation just stated, the government has rested its case."

The government called only 10 witnesses in four weeks of testimony trying to prove espionage, conspiracy and theft charges against Ellsberg and Russo in connection with the leak of the government's top secret war study.

Winthrop Rockefeller Dies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, the millionaire's son who brought widespread reform to Arkansas as its first Republican governor in nearly a century, died Thursday. He was 60.

A family spokesman said Rockefeller died of cancer at 11:30 a.m. EST. Once a robust 200-pound 6-footer, he had been weakened by an illness discovered during surgery last year and was hospitalized a week ago with a chest ailment.

Rockefeller was elected governor of his adopted state in 1966 after failing to defeat sixth-term Gov. Orval Faubus two years earlier. He was re-elected in 1968, but Arkansas voters rejected his bid for a third two-year term in 1970 after he had led a far-reaching reform movement in the state.

In a typical act of nonconformity, Rockefeller left New York where the rest of his family lived and at the age of 40 settled in rural Arkansas. He later maintained he loved the state more than native residents because he chose to come there.

After his arrival in the state, he quickly became a leader in business, cultural and civic affairs and was chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission from 1955-64. In 1960, he began to build an effective statewide GOP organization, filling its coffers with his own fortune.

He pledged to run again after his 1964 defeat and, after a bitter campaign, Rockefeller was elected governor, the same year his brother, Nelson, was elected to a third term as governor of New York.

By the end of his second term, Rockefeller had succeeded in putting through the state's first general minimum wage law and a freedom of information law.

He also established the state's first Model Cities program, strengthened pollution control agencies, created a code of ethics for executive branch employees and expanded the state's red meat inspection program.

His second term was won by a narrow margin, but in 1970 he was defeated soundly by voters who appeared unhappy with his calls for tax increases and resentful of his lavishly funded campaign.

IN PERSPECTIVE

The battle may become pitched, as is predicted, but our guess is that President Nixon will win in his determination to pare billions from federal spending in this and coming years. Federal revenue-sharing will take the place of such spending but not to any total amount by a long-shot and not on any program-by-program basis.

In Nebraska's governmental circles, the use of revenue-sharing funds is being debated and one might well expect some kind of compromise. Such a compromise would have the funds going directly to reduction of taxes, going into existing state program, into new state programs and into a continuation of programs being eliminated by Nixon budget cuts.

But the revenue-sharing funds, as reported by Lincoln spokesmen for the Lincoln Action Program, are not social welfare funds and will not largely be used for that purpose. Rather, they are far more likely to be used for regular general fund purposes in state and local governments.

In the field of education, the federal cutbacks may be felt the least, since states, including Nebraska, are moving more and more heavily into assistance at local levels of education. The suffering here will be felt only in special and isolated programs, most of them aimed at helping the underprivileged, such as Head Start.

But a vast array of other social welfare and other kinds of programs will be falling like flies in 1973-74 and following years. These will include many farm-oriented programs that have already been eliminated and which, for the most part, Congress will not find within its power to restore.

Nixon has a dual strategy — the veto and the impoundment of funds. His administration has embarked, remember, upon a program of retrenchment. For that purpose, it needs no congressional majority. All it needs is a one-third vote plus one to stop Congress from enacting measures over the President's veto.

And should the administration not be able to sustain a veto, the President can and obviously will simply order that the funds involved not be spent. Since it is his administration, the agencies involved will cooperate fully with him.

Congress may rant and rave at such a procedure and pass resolutions ordering the spending of money but that would do no good. The issue may even be dragged into court but it will end up there in little more than a state of delay and confusion.

Thus, a long list of programs covering such things as employment, housing, environmental control, hospital construction, mental health, welfare and others are now destined for a positive decline and, in many cases, final extinction.

Nixon may be misreading the mandate he received from voters last November but that is now an irrelevant matter. He is embarked upon an austerity program at the federal level and there is no reason to believe he will not succeed at it.

The unfortunate thing about all this is that the good will be gone with the bad. Many of the programs involved had some shortcomings but there was none of them that did not have, also, some definite assets and some promising results for the nation.

What is the fate or destiny now of those who did need the programs that are being dismantled? The nation will find out that, while it can walk away from its problems, it can never escape the consequences of them.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE Hard Going Today For Old Diogenes

NEW YORK — An elevator man in a large hospital discovered that he could walk into the medical rooms without being noticed. He began taking penicillin for a sore throat. When his wife was ill, he brought her some erythromycin. Friends began coming to him for prescriptions, and then friends of friends. He began to get rich from selling his medicines. And proud because everyone called him "doc" and bought what he prescribed. He was indignant when he was found out; how could they arrest a successful doctor?

In a little Pennsylvania town a 58-year-old man — churchgoer, head of the volunteer fire department — worked his way up to head of the mail room in a store. Every day he mailed out merchandise to friends, relatives and himself. Not only was he stealing goods, he was using the company's boxes and postage to transport them. If you're in the right spot, crime is a cinch.

A 60-year-old truck driver had worked for an appliance wholesale firm for 20 years; his job, delivering deep freezers to retail outlets. He was respected and trusted for his seniority status, until it was discovered that he filled all the deep freezers with TV sets, radios and clocks, and dropped them off at a service station where he gassed up the truck.

Altogether he robbed his company of $90,000. When discovered, he said he'd wanted to be a big man in his church, and had tithed to the tune of $50 weekly.

Fighting Terror With Terror

Wednesday, just when U. S. Secretary of State William Rogers was telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "the risk of a major power confrontation has been substantially reduced" in the Middle East, the Israeli Air Force shot down a Cairo-bound commercial jetliner from Libya. Some 75 of the passengers and crew died when the plane crash-landed in the Israeli-occupied Sinai Desert.

The incident followed by hours two Israeli raids on Arab guerrilla strongholds in Lebanon. The two incidents may not draw the major powers into direct confrontation over the continuing Middle East struggle, but they do point up the bleak prospects for successful negotiation of a long-term peace in that part of the world.

The shooting down of a civilian aircraft was especially senseless.

Arab sources said the plane, out of Benghazi, Libya, had overflown Cairo and strayed into Israeli-held territory because of bad weather. The Israeli military said its pilots had directed the jetliner to land "according to international procedures" and only after its failure to do so did they cripple the plane. Varying reports suggested that the Israeli warplanes acted because the Libyan plane had flown over strategic military positions or because it was thought to be loaded with explosives and would be crashed into Tel Aviv by the Arabs.

Such explanations are hard to buy. Reports indicate, at least, that the civilian aircraft posed no real threat to Israeli military positions or cities.

It appears to have been a hot-headed act that can only bring the temporarily-cooled Middle East situation back to the conflagration stage. It shows that the Israelis don't have a monopoly on cool reflexes in that region and it could mean a loss of much of the sympathy and support given Israel due to its suffering at the hands of the Arab terrorists. Because this itself was an act of terrorism in which over 70 civilians died.

It means the major powers will have to start from scratch again in attempts to defuse the Middle East.

Attention Showered On Labor

George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, and the other labor chiefs have President Nixon eating out of their hands. And they have Robert Strauss, national chairman of the Democratic Party, eating out of their hands.

Nixon, who endured labor's hostility during his first term, won the considerable gift of its neutrality during the last election and was warmly received by members of the labor federation's executive council at a reception this week. He didn't come away a total winner — the labor leaders later blasted the President's budget cuts in domestic programs. But they gave an endorsement of sorts to his Phase Three economic policy and his proposed trade legislation.

Meanwhile, Strauss was cooling his heels in the hotel lobby and smarting over his persona non grata status at the executive council meeting.

Leaning On A Weak Reed

NEW YORK — Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina has made clear the fact that those who are relying on Congress to restore a reporter's ability to protect confidential sources are leaning on a weak reed. This is not because Ervin doesn't want to help; he and numerous other senators, in fact, are anxious to pass some measure that would undo the Supreme Court's 5-4 decision in the Caldwell case.

But Ervin has been around Congress long enough to know that the likelihood of passing a so-called "absolute bill" — one that would apply in any and every case — is near zero. Even that likelihood disappears when it is also demanded that an absolute bill be "pre-emptive" — that is, that it apply to state jurisdictions as well as to federal proceedings.

There are several obvious reasons why this is so. The press is not admired enough for Congress to grant it such sweeping immunity. No one can say what might be the results, in unforeseen cases or on defendants, of an absolute bill. There are reasonable constitutional doubts — Ervin has expressed his — about both the absolute and pre-emptive features.

Practically speaking, if these problems could be overcome in the Senate and a less-sympathetic House, there can be not the slightest doubt that President Nixon would promptly veto the resulting bill; and two-thirds majorities to override are even less likely than the necessary votes to pass. Assistant Attorney General Roger Cramton said flatly at a Washington seminar that if any legislation were passed, it would have to give judges "a lot of discretion," that is, it could not be absolute.

This political situation is widely recognized, if not often admitted, although more and more supporters of congressional action — for example, the American Newspaper Publishers Association and Dr. Frank Stanton of the Columbia Broadcasting System — have shifted from support of a qualified bill to advocating an absolute and pre-emptive bill.

Sen. Alan Cranston, a staunch and early proponent of a reporters' protection bill, has pointed out that this trend reverses the political norm — that reasonable people usually move toward "the center" rather than away from it, as an issue develops. Surely one reason for this reversal is tactical; the difficulties of enacting any reporters' protection bill are seen to be so formidable that supporters believe they must demand as much as possible to wind up with anything at all, when all the compromising and horse-trading will have been completed.

But the new bill Ervin has proposed, in recognition of the practical impossibility of getting an absolute, pre-emptive bill, illustrates another and contradictory reason for the reverse movement Cranston pointed out.

It is that in this case "anything at all" might well be worse than nothing. The Ervin bill would make reporters subject to subpoena if they had "actual personal knowledge" of a crime, either by witnessing it or through receiving a confession; depending somewhat on its definition of what is a crime and what is a confession, this is a loophole through which almost any judge or grand jury could drive herds of reporters into the witness box.

The Department of Justice is contending at this moment, for instance, that it was a crime for Daniel Ellsberg to have disclosed classified documents. Another limited bill by Sen. Lowell Weicker would not grant immunity in federal court in cases where the "national security" had been breached; but "national security" — what it is and what it is not — is almost classically a subjective matter, one no government hesitates to invoke for its own purposes.

Cranston has pointed to a limited-immunity bill that would not permit a reporter to protect sources in cases involving "threat to human life," and has

Efficiency Not All Good

Judging from the comments the other day of the former Czechoslovakian judge, Otto Ulic, the FBI may have one up on the KGB.

The FBI is computerized. Ulic, in Lincoln to speak about what has happened in Czechoslovakia since the Soviet occupation began in 1968, talked about the two systems under which he's lived.

And he pointed to good and bad things he's observed in the U.S., as well as in the eastern European countries.

Ulic told reporters that one of the things which keeps authoritarian governments from being all bad is their tendency toward inefficiency.

He said, for example, that the "political evaluations" that are kept on all individuals in Czechoslovakia are stored away in envelopes.

If they were computerized, the system would be much more efficient. But it would also be more dangerous.

"The computer is the greatest ally of the oppressor," said Ulic.

With computerization, he suggested, it would be much easier for a communist government to keep track of everybody.

That's exactly why people such as Sam Ervin have screamed loudly about the computerized information banks filed away in Washington as a result of what Ervin has labeled political spying in this country.

And, the whole business of how computers can be used for shady business is another testimony to the reason we must be careful about our use of technology.

We've barely tapped the kind of positive contributions that can come to society with the wise use of technology, but we must not forget that it can also be used unwisely.

Efficiency is important, but not at the expense of human values which we should preserve.

That kind of concern is one of the reasons some people in the teaching profession get uptight about the kind of management by objectives trend that I mentioned in this column last week.

After that column appeared, Executive Director Ely Feistner of the Lincoln Education Association brought me a copy of a "declaration on accountability" issued by the National Education Association last week.

What the NEA has to say about that subject is essentially what I believe is the best about the cry for accountability, since it's tempered with the warning that an enterprise which deals with changing behavior and expanding knowledge is not easily quantifiable.

The NEA declaration begins with the statement: "Public education is in serious trouble." "As an organization that has the welfare of teachers and their students as a major concern, the National Education Association must do something to improve the current public attitude toward its schools," says the NEA.

But the NEA also warns that "accountability is an economist's term and is being applied to schools by economists."

"Dollars in a visible and measurable product out are the criteria of many of the accountability measures being placed on schools today."

Having raised that flag, however, the NEA puts its finger on the problem that has led some schools down the path toward management by objectives concepts.

"A public and legislative cry for accountability is a natural result of the loose management practices that have plagued public education for years

"Roles and responsibilities have not been clearly defined. School boards have been making management decisions the superintendents should have been making, and superintendents have been creating policy that boards should make."

At the same time, says the NEA, teachers, who are closest to students and parents, have had too little to do with important decisions.

The request to account for what is happening in public education "is reasonable and the profession has an obligation to answer," the statement continues.

But it notes "the answer cannot be limited to just interpreting the results of student performance and laying the total responsibility on teachers."

Thus the NEA says it must, first, "show that current accountability measures that tacitly assume that the teacher is the sole agent affecting pupil behavior are only a part of the picture."

And, second, "The NEA must initiate action to develop accountability measures that assess performance at every level of decision-making affecting school programs," including students, teachers, administrators, school boards and community schools.

If the NEA carries through on that outline of action, it will only increase the chances that from the response to a cry for accountability will come positive steps forward in education.

It represents the sort of humanism that must temper all our moves toward greater efficiency — we need to leave room for creative and experimental endeavors, insure that we can protect our commitment to values and, at the same time, be as effective and productive as possible

Threat To Press

Chicago, Ill.

There is a report titled "Watergate Lies" in The New Republic, Feb. 17, Pages 11-14, inclusive. It seems to me that any attempt to suggest an investigation of alleged political espionage and sabotage of the Democrats against the GOP in 1964 and 1968 is an attempt, vainly, to turn the tables at this late date.

As for the "Watergate Lies," the plans of the perpetrators were: separate the perpetrators from the White House; then suggest their activities were directed by some other individual or organization.

"In playing and replaying these themes, White House and Nixon campaign officials used a mixture of evasions and half-truths to deceive and mislead the news media and the public on the facts of Watergate and the far-reaching political intelligence of which the bugging of the Democratic National Committee headquarters was just a part."

But the press and the news media kept reporting on the break-in from June 17 through September, and they were telling the truth all the time. Then came the decision that news reporters had to disclose the sources of their information or go to jail for contempt of the grand jury or courts. Several reporters went to jail.

The damage done by the cover-up could be responsible for the threat now to the freedom of the press, which is far more serious than any without-charge charge against the Democrats.

Two Wrongs

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding the letter, "Questioning Law" (Star, Feb. 10), I, too, question law but not the law that makes the use or possession of marijuana illegal. I question the law that makes the use or possession of alcohol legal.

The writer of the letter I refer to indicates that since tobacco and alcohol have been proven harmful to health, and since "marijuana has not been proven harmful to health," marijuana should be legalized. Use or possession of tobacco could never be made illegal, since it is harmful only to its user. Alcohol and marijuana are dangerous, and not solely to their users.

Nearly everyone agrees that alcohol is harmful to health, including the health of non-drinkers who are endangered by drunken drivers, and yet it is legal for anyone "of age" to drink. Many people question whether or not marijuana is harmful to health, because it has not been proven harmful by doctors in "test-tube" experiments. However, this is not to say that marijuana has not been proven harmful.

I know of a case in which a young man, who had never taken any other kind of drug, smoked marijuana to excess and it affected him like an LSD trip.

He tried to jump out a window. I also know of many instances of people smoking marijuana and then attempting to drive a car, thus proving that marijuana is dangerous even to non-users. Two wrongs don't make a right, so wouldn't it be far better to concentrate efforts on opposing alcohol, instead of supporting marijuana?

A Choice

Lincoln, Neb.

I called cable TV to see if the Lincoln Class A District basketball game would be on cable. A very polite young man (not Mr. Cook, who is curt and seems not to have time or interest in one's questions) informed me that the Athletic Association would not allow them to televise the games. I called Mr. Don Ferguson of the Athletic Association to find out why. He was courteous in explaining their various reasons, one being that it would hurt attendance at games to have it televised.

What about the turn-away crowds between certain schools? Even the night of the raging blizzard when Northeast and East played, people were turned away! The following week I watched that game on TV with as much enthusiasm as when I saw it in person.

Sometimes the camera catches things you may have thought you saw differently in person.

I urge those who want more local sports on cable TV to write to Mr. Don Ferguson or Mr. Virgil Horne at 720 South 22, Lincoln, 68501. These should be constructive letters asking them to reverse their present policies.

I am positive the young people will always prefer to attend, but let those of us over 40 make a choice to attend or watch it on cable.

Country's Needs

Kearney, Neb.

I find it tragic that President Nixon, under the pretense of avoiding a tax increase, has cut government aid to welfare, medical research, education and student loans, plus agriculture and wildlife subsidies, yet plans to spend $2½ billion in North Vietnam.

Could it be our President has forsaken the needs of this country in order to clear a guilty conscience about an immoral war in Southeast Asia?

Square D Court Action Deferred

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A hearing on a temporary injunction sought by Square D Co. in connection with alleged mass picketing on Square D property was continued to 10 a.m. Friday after more than two hours' testimony Thursday.

Lancaster District Judge Samuel Van Pelt deferred ruling on a motion by defense counsel David Weinberg to vacate the temporary restraining order issued Tuesday and to dismiss the petition.

Judge Van Pelt Tuesday issued an order temporarily restraining mass picketing at Square D in an action filed against the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, Local 1536 and its agents and members.

Violations Contended
In the petition, Square D contended that the defendants violated the mass picketing provisions of the statutes and that their actions constitute unlawful and intentional interference of the legal right of access to and from the plaintiff's plant.

Weinberg told the court that the plaintiffs were relying on the mass picketing statute of Nebraska, "which is in the same words of the mass picketing statute of Texas" that has been declared unconstitutional.

He contended that what the plaintiffs alleged in the petition constituted a violation of the National Labor Relations Act and what the plaintiffs seek violates the First and 14th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

Brown Testifies
The only witness who testified Thursday was Square D plant manager Thomas Brown, who testified that since the work stoppage on Jan. 25 there had been "continuous parking of cars, in 'No Parking' areas" and pickets in excess of two per every 50 feet.

He said on Feb. 20 — the same day as the court action was filed — there was a large mass of cars and people gathering around the plant and a large group of people and parked cars in the driveway.

Brown testified that the people were "shouting obscenities, screaming and turning away people at the driveways."

On cross examination by Weinberg, Brown said that none of the named defendants in the petition who were union agents involved in negotiating with the firm were among those making the alleged remarks he personally heard.

Known Employees
However, he testified a large group of those present and involved in the alleged "mass" picketing were known to him to be employees of Square D although he said he could not name each of them.

On examination by Weinberg, Brown said that he did not call the police but that the Lincoln police "suggested that they be able to handle the situation."

When Weinberg asked if the police did handle the situation, Brown responded, "No," adding that the people stayed about two hours.

Lincoln attorney Taylor Greer, who represents the firm in the action, told the court he would have four or five more witnesses who would testify Friday.

Weinberg said that the defense might not have any "based on the testimony of the plaintiff's witness" who testified Thursday.

City 'Stays Neutral' In Square D Strike

Officials of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers local which is striking Lincoln's Square D Co. plant were assured by city officials Thursday that the city intends to stay neutral.

Union Chairman Jeff Ditzler and Russel Mundorf, IBEW district representative, met with Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf in a private discussion that Ditzler described as "very favorable."

Ditzler said he explained the union's position on picketing procedures and the mayor "expressed that he didn't want to get involved in anything."

Schwartzkopf indicated he would "stay neutral" on the strike and would simply see that no laws were violated. Ditzler said

Earlier in the day, a caravan of about 20 cars had gathered at the Knolls Restaurant, 2201 Old Cheney Rd., but dispersed quietly after police began noting license numbers and a man identified as a union official talked with the drivers.

There were no other incidents at the plant Thursday as the strike marked its 29th day.

12-Month Schools Advanced

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A bill to permit public schools in Nebraska to operate 12 months a year was given first round approval by the Legislature Thursday.

Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett's LB65 was advanced from general file, first stage of floor consideration, 28-6.

Barnett said the purpose of the bill is not to have children going to school every day, but to permit school districts, after a vote of the people, to better utilize school buildings and give students more flexibility in scheduling.

Sen. Herb Nore of Geneva opposed the bill, saying it would result in parents "abdicate their responsibility to the schools."

Sen. George Syas of Omaha also opposed the bill on the grounds that it would contribute to "further breakdown of the family."

Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha said the bill was needed because of overcrowding in Omaha schools and a trend toward taking vacations at times other than the summer months.

Barnett said student would still be required to attend a minimum of 175 school days each year but a student wishing to complete his education in a short period of time could go to school more.

Salary Hike For Judges Is Passed

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The Legislature Thursday passed and sent to Gov. J. J. Exon a bill to increase the minimum salary of county district associate judges from $1,000 to $2,400 per year.

The measure, LB40, was approved 35-0 on final reading, along with a companion funding bill LB40A, which was approved 39-0.

Both bills were sponsored by Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance.

When the 1972 legislature overhauled the state's county court system and created the county district courts along with judges and associate judges, it set $1,000 as the minimum salary for a county judge in counties of 3,000 population or less.

In those counties, that salary would have been in addition to the annual salary paid the associate judge, who in most cases is the county clerk and receives a clerk's salary.

When Exon signs LB40, the minimum salary for associate judges will rise to $2,400. In instances where the county clerk serves as the associate judge, he will receive $1,000 for his judicial duties.

Traffic Violations Penalties Advanced

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The Legislature refused Thursday to water down a bill designed to get flagrant violators of traffic laws off the highways.

Given 33-0 first round floor approval was Walthill Sen. Blair Richendier's LB213, which provides that a driver who has his driver license suspended twice in a five year period under the point system shall forfeit his driving privileges for a three year period.

Had the bill been in effect last year, about four per cent of the 1,309 drivers hit by point system suspensions would have been subject to the three year forfeit.

The Public Works Committee, which considered the bill had recommended provisions be eased to apply only to a driver with three suspensions in five years, but Richendier contended such an amendment would render the bill useless. The committee amendment was rejected 21-3 and a kill motion was defeated 28-2.

Lawmakers refused also to be deterred by a warning that the stiffened law will result in a multitude of court appeals. Noting that in his home town there is a six-month backlog of district court cases, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said the bill, although worthy, "is going to clog the courts to a level they can't operate." He said it will "create hundreds and hundreds of appeals."

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield, who made the kill motion, said the bill would "open up a paradise for lawyers."

But Sen. Richard Fellman of Omaha, an attorney, discounted the court appeals fear. He said the bill provides for administrative revocations of licenses by the Motor Vehicles Department rather than the courts, and said "enforceability is relatively simple."

LB213 is one of a series of bills recommended by the state's Traffic Safety Committee as tools to improve highway safety.

Ford...73 U.S. Car Of The Year...

"It is the finest family car to be found at its price in showrooms today. In many respects it's the best that can be found at any price!"
Road Test Magazine, September 1972

The following outstanding features are standard on a 1973 Ford Galaxie 500:

■ Selectshift cruise-o-matic transmission ■ Power front disc brakes ■ Power steering ■ Black sidewall bias-belted tires ■ Full length door armrests ■ Deep cushioned lower back bench seats ■ Power ventilation ■ Magic air heater

■ Two rear seat ash trays ■ Dome and front ash tray lights ■ Chrome hub caps ■ Door panel wood tone appliques ■ Loop pile carpeting ■ Galaxie 500 ornamentation ■ Bright door belt, hood rear, wheel lip ■ Tail lamp and body side moulding ■ Dual note horn ■ Locking steering column ■ Inside hood release ■ Energy-absorbing bumper system ■ Unilock shoulder/lap belts ■ Plus all Ford Motor Company safety features.

"Whether you choose a Custom 500, Galaxie 500 or LTD, you'll get what we think is the current best in family transportation."

"All body styles are mounted on a 121-inch wheelbase torque box frame with coil suspension at each wheel. This frame design permits a wheel impacting a bump or dip to move slightly rearward into a rubber cushion as well as up and down... It is this feature more than anything else that contributes to Ford's outstandingly smooth ride. And it enhances quietness on rough surfaces."

Towns Along I-80 Show Population Growth

A study of Nebraska's population growth reveals that it is concentrated most in the Lincoln and Omaha areas, with smaller growth concentrations in and near some of the state's smaller cities, especially those along Interstate 80.

Revised 1971 and provisional 1972 estimates prepared by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Bureau of Business Research were released in the Business in Nebraska edition of the February UNL News.

According to the article by Vernon Renshaw, provisional 1972 estimates indicate an even stronger growth concentration in metropolitan areas than did the 1971 estimates.

The estimates were based on five indicators of population change: drivers licenses, school census, school enrollment, food tax credits and social security beneficiaries.

The bureau used a method developed by Dr. E. Z. Palmer during the initial test phase of the Federal-State Cooperative program.

In Lancaster County between April 1, 1970 and July 1, 1972, the population increased from 167,972 to 177,906, for a 5.9% rise.

The study said each of the three regions classified as metropolitan — Lincoln, Omaha and South Sioux City — had an estimated percentage increase of more than twice that of the state for the 1970-72 period mentioned.

The U.S. Census Bureau's provisional estimate of Nebraska population as of July 1, 1972, is 1,525,226. That represents a growth of 2.7% from the April, 1970 level of 1,485,333, compared with a national average growth of 2.5% during the same period.

Fewer Leaving
The number of people who left Nebraska between July 1, 1971, and July 1, 1972, was estimated at 7,984, a decrease of 1,154 from the same period a year earlier.

Across the state, the North Platte region showed the greatest percentage increase at 7.7% between April 1, 1970, and July 1, 1972.

Only one non-metropolitan area besides North Platte had a 1970 to 1972 percentage increase that exceeded the state average of 2.7%. Only two others had gains exceeding 2%.

Of the four non-metropolitan regions with increases above 2%, three (North Platte, Kearney and Lexington) have principal towns along I-80 and the fourth (Fremont) is adjacent to the Omaha region.

The 1972 estimates show that parts of the state that are distant from metropolitan areas and the interstate highway system are generally lagging behind both the state and the nation in population growth.

Across Nebraska

Hospital Discourages Visits Due To Flu

McCook — St. Catherine's Hospital here is discouraging visiting of patients, at the request of doctors. Sister Paschala, hospital administrator, said there are about a dozen cases of flu among patients. Although doctors haven't labeled the bug as London flu, many cases wind up as pneumonia, according to Sister Paschala. McCook schools report no large absenteeism among either students or faculty.

Aurora Coed Receives Award

Susan Torgerson, 21, of Aurora, has been named recipient of the 1972 Nebraska American Association of Agricultural College Editors award. The award is designed to recognize and encourage students enrolled in either agriculture or home economics journalism and is based on scholarship and professional competence. Miss Torgerson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Torgerson of Aurora, is a University of Nebraska-Lincoln majoring in home economics journalism.

Eddy Named To Norfolk Council

Norfolk — The nomination of Willard P. Eddy to the Norfolk City Council has been approved. He will fill the unexpired term of the late Harry Dinkel as Fourth Ward councilman. Eddy will serve until the May, 1974, city election.

Blaker Given Sertoma Citation

Wymore — B. E. "Bow" Blaker, Wymore park superintendent, received the Wymore Sertoma Club's Service to Mankind Award during special ceremonies here. Well known in the Wymore area for his contributions to the city's park program, Blaker has also played a role in organizing the annual Wymore Little Britches Rodeo.

Reception To Honor Centennial

Lawrence (AP) — Julius Mazour intends to hold Catholic Bishop Glennon Flavin of Lincoln to his word. Five years ago, Bishop Flavin promised Mr. Mazour that he would come to Lawrence for a visit on the occasion of Mr. Mazour's 100th birthday. The Lawrence resident will reach the century mark Sunday at a reception to be held in his honor.

Ak-Sar-Ben Membership Dips Slightly

Omaha (AP) — The six-week long Ak-Sar-Ben membership drive for 1973 has ended with a membership of 55,607. The figure is down slightly from the record total of 55,870 last year.

One-Act Play Festival Revived

Fremont — The Midland College theater department will host a high school one-act play festival this Saturday, reinstating the oldest high school theater festival in the state. According to Robert A. Schanke, director of theater at the college, when the festival started in 1927 it was the first in Nebraska and for 22 years was a highlight of high school theater activity in the area. Taking part in this year's festival will be Beatrice High School, Fremont High School, Lincoln Southeast High, Boys Town High, David City High, Fremont Senior High, Hartington High, Ogallala High and Wilsonville High.

Benefit Game Aids Crash Victim

Kearney (AP) — A benefit basketball game was played here between a team comprised of broadcasters and law enforcement officials. About $170 was raised for Kevin Morris, 8, of Elm Creek, who was seriously injured in a car pedestrian accident in January. The team named the Flatfoot lost to the Semi-Superstars 57-50 despite the losers' strategy of handcuffing the opponents in the first half.

Board OKs Parole For Fifteen Inmates

By United Press International

The State Parole Board Thursday granted paroles for 15 state prison inmates and deferred action on the cases of three others.

During a Wednesday meeting, the board granted paroles to 12 men and women's reformatory inmates.

The prison inmates granted paroles (including home town, crime convicted of, county where convicted, term and date of sentence) were:

Edward N. Boles, 21, Union first count felony, second count attempted escape and third count felony, 12 years on each of the first two counts and 12 years on current on the third, Cass and Sarpy counties, 1972.

Hall County Authorities Nix Work Release Plan

Grand Island (AP) — A proposed work release program for convicted felons has run into unanimous opposition from the heads of Hall County's courts and law enforcement agencies.

Authorities who have expressed opposition to the program include District Judge Donald H. Weaver, County Judge Edward Nixon, Hall County Atty. Sam Grimmering, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Dwayne Hen. All said they were against the state sponsored program "as it is now proposed."

There is at present no work release program in Hall County for felons.

Police Chief Thomas Smaha said he was "definitely opposed to the program as it now stands."

Plan Outlined

The state program was outlined Saturday by Penal Complex Warden Charles Wolff. Wolff said the program would bring inmates from the prison at Lincoln into the community, house them in private facilities and find jobs for them. In this way, Wolff said, the program would help inmates prepare to return to society.

Security precautions were a major item of concern to local officials.

"I have not been convinced the state's program as presently proposed will provide adequate safeguards for the community," Judge Dixon said. He said he had been led to believe the felons would be housed in private facilities, possibly a motel, that would be operated under a "minimum security" concept.

Dixon noted participants in county work release programs — involving only misdemeanor offenders — are housed in jail when not at work.

Pass Privilege
Chief Smaha said he was concerned with reports the inmates in the state program would be given passes to "go up town shopping" and otherwise circulate in the community. "I'm not sure I approve of this," Smaha said.

Grimmering said he was concerned about the type of inmates that could be sent here.

"I have been told these would include any class of prisoner," he said, including "those convicted of murder, rape, armed robbery or any other felony."

Judge Dixon said the county work release program was designed to allow prisoners to keep jobs they already had. He complained that the state program would find jobs for the felons, which would otherwise be filled by members of the local labor force. "This would seem to be a case of using prison labor in direct competition to private enterprise," he said.

Authorities also said there were no requirements for prisoners to report their income to the state, and thus their families could remain on welfare while they earned a salary.

Liquor Wholesaler Said Fixing Prices

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department Thursday accused a Nebraska liquor wholesaler of fixing retail liquor prices in Nebraska in violation of antitrust law.

The civil antitrust suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Omaha, named as defendant E. D. Phillips & Sons Co. of Omaha, a wholly owned subsidiary of Alco Standard Corp., Valley Forge, Pa.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas Kauper, in charge of the antitrust division, said the defendant is a wholesale distributor of distilled spirits and wines to approximately 2,400 retail stores throughout Nebraska.

In 1971, Phillips sold approximately 262,889 cases of liquor, which accounted for about 30% of all the distilled spirits sold at wholesale in Nebraska, according to the complaint.

The suit charges that Phillips had conspired with its retailers to eliminate the advertisement of the brands distributed by Phillips at prices less than Phillips' suggested retail prices.

The complaint also alleges that Phillips had refused to fill orders from retail liquor dealers until they agreed to discontinue advertising liquor distributed by Phillips at prices less than those suggested by Phillips.

The suit further charges that the effect of the defendant's activity has been to suppress competition among retailers in the sale of brands distributed by Phillips and to restrain trade and commerce in distilled spirits and wines.

The complaint asks that the defendant be perpetually enjoined from engaging in conduct which has the purpose or effect of restraining competition between liquor retailers.

Ellwood Given One Year For Embezzlement

Norfolk (AP) — Former Madison County Atty. Milton Ellwood has been sentenced to one year in prison on a charge of embezzlement.

Ellwood had pleaded no contest to the charge last November. Sentence had been deferred pending a pre-sentence investigation.

Ellwood was charged last July with having converted $2,378 of county money to his own use during 1969.

Ellwood was disbarred early in 1972 by order of the State Supreme Court for unprofessional conduct. He had been cited for improper unethical handling of six cases involving estates.

Fifteen Persons Nabbed For Gambling Violations

Omaha (AP) — Authorities arrested 15 persons in the Omaha area Thursday on federal gambling charges.

Fletcher D. Thompson, agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, said 14 persons were taken into custody within 10 minutes after the raids started at 7 a.m., and all were in custody within 30 minutes.

Those arrested included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Matya. The Matyas since February of 1972 have been fighting a federal suit charging that Matya owed $793,703 in unpaid taxes on a gross gambling business of $4 million in 1970 and 1971.

They have posted an $85,000 bond while the government attempts to determine whether it can seize for taxes property which Mrs. Matya claims, a liquor store.

Matya, his wife and the others appeared before U.S. Magistrate Richard Peck Thursday and were released on $1,000 bond each.

Thomas Thalken, assistant U.S. attorney, said indictments

Home Control Of Water Urged By State Official

Instead of more stringent controls scheduled by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), future control of water in the state should stay at home, the director of the State Environmental Control Dept. said Thursday.

People who deal with water have traditionally been concerned only with its quantity, J. L. Higgins said, but he predicted, "The time is coming when you are going to be forced into considering the quality of the water."

He addressed a group of well drillers and suppliers at the Nebraska Well Drillers Association 42nd annual conference in Lincoln.

"Most Comprehensive"
Higgins said the federal water quality control act "has to be the most comprehensive in the world."

Heavy penalties, he said, "provide a real incentive to get with the program," but he called for enactment of similar regulations and penalties by state lawmakers to retain home control.

"It'd be a mistake to turn this completely over to the EPA," he said, because "all of us today have a stake in preserving the quality and quantity of waters."

Higgins said he objects to federal control of state water because only about one-third of funds authorized by Congress will be released for state water control.

That's "more than a little frustrating," he said.

"Preventative"

The 1964 state water control standards and new regulations adopted by the State Environmental Council are "preventive rather than corrective," Higgins said, "and this is the way we intend to keep it." But he noted, "Our present standards, rules and regulations can be considered only the beginning."

One of the goals of the water quality control act would prohibit discharges of pollutants into any of the nation's waters by 1985, Higgins said.

Then, "for the first time, all waters in the United States are controlled," both ground and surface waters, he said.

The association elected officers for 1973-74. They are: Earl Perry of Atkinson, president; Harry Maruhn of Oxford, vicepresident; Dan Moser of Hickman, treasurer; Marjorie Seidel of Lincoln, secretary; and Richard Jorgenson, of Callaway, director.

The two-day conference and short course, sponsored by the conservation and survey division of the University of Nebraska, wound up Thursday.

About 300 drillers and 175 suppliers attended, an association spokesman said.

Black Elk Dies At Pine Ridge

Pine Ridge, S.D. (UPI) — Ben Black Elk, the man known by thousands of tourists as "the fifth face at Mt. Rushmore," died Thursday following a brief illness here.

Black Elk, 73, had greeted visitors to Mt. Rushmore National Monument for 27 years and had been featured in five motion pictures.

Movies he appeared in included "How the West was Won," in which he played a Crow chief and Arapahoe chief, and "The Savage."

He also appeared on South Dakota travel literature. He greeted travelers to the monument dressed in full Sioux regalia, and was called by many South Dakota's best good will ambassador.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Chamberlain Funeral Home in Rushville, Neb.

Apartment Fire Claims Life Of Ex-Nebraskan

Beatrice — Word has been received here of the death of Patricia M. Weston, 36, as the result of a fire in her apartment in Phoenix, Ariz.

A native of Beatrice, she was graduated from Beatrice High School and the University of Nebraska.

Investigating officers said the exact cause of the blaze had not been determined, but there was some indication the victim may have fallen asleep on the living room couch while smoking.

Survivors include a son, Jonathan of Phoenix, her mother, Mrs. Cynthia Weston of California, and a sister, Mrs. James (Margaret) Rice of Chillicothe, Ohio. Her father was the late Collins Weston of Beatrice.

3 Killed In Crash North Of Raymond

Three persons were killed Thursday morning in a two-car head-on collision on Hwy 79 about three miles north of Raymond, according to the State Patrol.

Albion News Will Be Sold

Albion, AP — Jack and Helen Lough, owners of the Albion News for more than 28 years, announced Wednesday that Rudy H. Froese of Hartington will become copublisher and partner April 1.

Lough said the partnership will lead to the eventual sale of the newspaper in two years when the Loughs retire.

Officials identified those killed as Joyce Pokorny, 20, Betty J. Pokorny, 23, both of Weston, and Duane T. Masek, 21, of Valparaiso.

State Patrol officers said the Pokorny auto was southbound on Hwy. 79 when it was in collision with the northbound auto driven by Masek.

Betty Pokorny was a passenger in the auto driven by Joyce Pokorny. Masek was alone in his car, according to the State Patrol.

Drug Raid Knowledge Denied By Federal Officials In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Federal officials in Omaha said Thursday night they had no knowledge as yet about reported indictment of 39 persons in six states, including Nebraska, on charges of conspiring to distribute heroin and cocaine.

Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said the five-count indictments were returned by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles Tuesday and unsealed Thursday.

Officials said the alleged operation was centered in Los Angeles, from where drugs were distributed in California, Nebraska, New York, Texas, Nevada, Colorado and Washington, D.C.

Lawn Tractors Reported Taken

Six lawn tractors valued at a total of $2,525 were taken from a sidewalk in front of the Lancaster Implement store in Waverly, according to Lancaster County sheriff's reports.

Officers said the thieves cut a cable tying the tractors together in order to remove them.

Thomas Thalken, assistant U.S. attorney for Nebraska, said he had no information as yet on the indictments, and U.S. Marshal Lloyd Grimm said he had been given no warrants to be served.

No spokesman for the Omaha office of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs was available for comment.

The indictment returned in Los Angeles charges all 39 defendants with one count of conspiracy to violate the Federal Narcotics Law. The other four counts, two for selling heroin and cocaine and two for possessing heroin and cocaine for sale, each named five defendants.

Myles J. Ambrose, special assistant attorney general in charge of the Office for Drug Abuse Law Enforcement, said in Washington the conspiracy began about June of 1971 and continued to the day of the indictment.

He said the investigation began in mid-1972 and involved four federal government agencies in addition to state officials and local police departments.

The names of those indicted were not released pending their arrest.

Ambrose said the investigation indicated that narcotics dealers or their carriers would go to Los Angeles to place orders with the headquarters of the ring. Then, he said, the traffickers would stay in Los Angeles while specific amounts of narcotics would be imported into the United States to meet their needs.

GRACIA SIEB

Highlighting next week's fine arts activities will be the Lincoln Broadway League's presentation of "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" which will be on stage at Pershing Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 27.

The cast of the dramatic comedy, which was written by 1971 Pulitzer Prize playwright Paul Zindel, is headed by two of America's most distinguished actresses, Miss Gretchen Wyler and Miss Lillian Roth.

"And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" is a tragic-comedy about three sisters — Anna, Ceil and Catharine — each seeking her personal adjustments to life after the demise of their domineering mother.

Directed by Melvin Bernhardt, Miss Wyler portrays Anna, who becomes "slightly" mentally disturbed after she allegedly is involved in a school scandal where she teaches. Miss Roth plays, Catharine, the arbiter of the three sisters, who tries to keep sister Ceil, superintendent of the board of education, from having Anna committed to a "rest home"; and at the same time she tries to cope with her own personal dilemmas, which include a severe drinking problem.

The production promises an evening of entertainment, which will evoke a variety of emotional responses. This is due to the fact that Zindel's plot is intermingled with varying degrees of humor and tragedy.

Following the performance, the public is invited to attend a benefit reception, at which they will be able to meet and talk to the members of the cast, including Miss Wyler and Miss Roth.

Tickets to "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" may be obtained by contacting the Lincoln Broadway League, 810 East Sanborn Dr., Lincoln, 68505, or by calling 434-4314.

"ABELARD AND HELOISE" . . . written by Ronald Millar, will be the next production to be presented at Howell Theatre on the University of Nebraska campus. The play will be on stage March 2 and 3, and March 5 through 10, and the performances will begin at 8 p.m. A modern adaption of one of the greatest love stories of all time, it is based on a true story which took place in Medieval France. Dr. Hal Floyd will direct the production, which pursues the theme of the eternal conflict between the spirit and the flesh.

CHILDREN'S ART . . . created by youngsters in Seward County, will be on display at Koenig Art Gallery on the campus of Concordia Teachers' College in Seward from Feb. 25 through March 2. The exhibit is sponsored by the Seward Woman's Club. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays.

A MUSICAL SPOOF OF AMERICAN POLITICS . . . entitled "Of Thee I Sing," will be presented by the Nebraska Wesleyan University departments of speech and theatre arts, and music, Feb. 23 through 25, and March 3 and 4. Written by Kaufman, Ryskind, Gershwin and Gershwin, the play will take place in the Enid Miller Theatre. The curtain will rise at 8 p.m. on Feb. 23, 24 and March 3; and at 2 p.m. on Feb. 25 and March 4.

SERIGRAPHS BY RICHARD WIEGMANN . . . will be on display at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery from Feb. 27 through March 25. Serigraphs are prints created through the process of silk-screening. Mr. Wiegmann received his MFA from Claremont Graduate School, and he presently teaches at Concordia Teachers' College in Seward. Running concurrently with the Wiegmann exhibit will be the annual undergraduate student art exhibition which began on Feb. 19. Drawing, sculpture, painting, printmaking, ceramics, photography and graphic design are represented in the display, which may be seen at Sheldon through March 18.

CURTAIN CALL . . . MAURENE BIGGERSTAFF . . . is the featured artist in a display which is currently on exhibit in the Cengas building lobby. Sponsored by the Lincoln Artists' Guild, the showing consists of oils and acrylics, and it will be on display through March 7.

PAINTINGS, PRINTS AND SCULPTURE . . . done by Doane College art students, Raymond Waters and Doug Whitman will be on display at Whitin Art Gallery on the Doane campus, through March 3.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about hunting prompts this letter. Hunting is a sport to which I am morally opposed. My husband knows my objections, but, since he is an adult, I realize that his decisions are his own, and it is with his own conscience he must wrestle. I don't participate in his hunting trips, and have no intentions of doing so.

The problem centers around our 12-year-old son. My husband wants to buy him a gun and introduce him to the sport. Our son, eager to participate in activities with his father, is excited by the prospect.

I don't feel that humans have the right to kill animals unless their lives are directly endangered, or unless they need the meat for survival. We are an upper-middle-class urban family, and neither of these situations is likely to occur.

My husband says that he wants our son to know the joy of our rapidly vanishing wilderness areas. I say, "Fine, take him camping and teach him the craft of the woodsman."

He claims he wants our son to know the challenge of stalking elusive game.

I say, "Fine . . . let him stalk with a camera. And if he needs to have a trophy . . . bring home some pictures."

He says he wants our son to be skillful with a rifle. I don't mind that. We have access to an excellent skeet-shooting range and instructors.

Finally, and worst in my opinion, my husband says he wants our son to be a man, and that my refusal to sanction the hunting will turn him into a sissy.

Abby, to me a true man (or woman) is one who rejoices in the beauty of life, who works hard to preserve all of that beauty, who respects mankind and all animals, and who kills only as a necessity and never for pleasure or sport.

Many of our traditional and superficial concepts of manhood and womanhood are being questioned these days, and I think that the question of hunting as a means of developing masculinity deserves being considered by more Americans.

Thursday Wedding

At a 7:30 o'clock ceremony on Thursday evening, Feb. 22, the marriage of Miss Susan Lyn Roth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roth, to Steven Michael Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Klein, was solemnized at Calvary United Methodist Church by the Rev. Vernon Schroeder.

Mrs. Cindy Grubb attended her sister as the matron of honor, and completing the bridal party were Miss Lisa Roth and Miss Julie Klein, the bridesmaids.

Don Klein was his brother's best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Tom Klein, Jon Roth, Mike Roth, and Mark Orr.

For her wedding, the bride appeared in a velvet gown designed in the Empire mode. Venise lace formed a panel which ornamented the smoothly sculptured bodice, and the lace was repeated to contour the wedding band collar and to accent the deep cuffs of the Bishop sleeves. Beneath the high waistline, the skirt was gathered into an A-line silhouette.

The bride, a former coed at the University of Nebraska, currently is careering in the offices of the State Health Department Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Mr. Klein is a graduate of the Kansas AMTC in Kansas City, and he presently is associated with the Woodmen Accident and Life Insurance Co.

Betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. John Block of Fairmont make announcement this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janet Elaine, to Thomas Zuhke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zuhke of Sterling.

The wedding will take place Friday, March 16. Miss Block is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce and now is careering with Nabisco, Inc., in Lincoln.

Mr. Zuhke, who recently completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Army, is associated with the Van Sickle Paint Co., in Lincoln.

shopping tour has a "breath of spring" touch

Let the sun show its face and blue sky suddenly appear from behind the disappearing clouds of gloomy gray, and everyone becomes overanxious to get out on the golf course or tennis court. However, with the coming of spring an infectious disease takes hold, of which the most noticeable symptom is a recurring desire to go shopping — And that desire is often accompanied by a high spring fever.

To relieve those aching feelings of anxiety and discontent, may we prescribe a shopping spree at the many Lincoln stores which have bright and colorful, spring displays that will lift your spirits.

AT THE NEBRASKA

At The Nebraska they tell us that fashions in spring clothing are highlighted by pastel shades, and again special features of women's apparel include pantsuits and long dresses, as well as the rebirth of the shirt dress.

THE THREE-PIECE COORDINATE: In the Poppy Shop at The Nebraska, an attractive display consists of two blazer tops for your selection and matching pants. The blazers are styled with wide lapels and two patch pockets. A series of three buttons accents the cuffs of the long sleeves and two buttons fasten the jacket near the waist. One of the blazers is designed in a bright shade of tangerine, while the other features pastel stripes of tangerine, blue, green, pink and beige.

The slightly flared pants are also styled in solid tangerine, and they feature a belt covered with green, tangerine and white striped grosgrain cloth, accented by beige leather near the gold buckle.

THE SAFARI PANTSUIT: Ideal for casual occasions is the safari pant suit in a beige polyester-cotton combination. The jacket fastens in the front with a full-length zipper beneath a standup collar. A wide band of elastic accents the waistline, and the jacket also features long, cuffed sleeves.

The pants are styled with wide, straight pant legs, and an elastic waistband.

LONG JUMPER: Another item at the Poppy Shop is a long, cotton jumper, which buttons completely down the front. The white jumper is displayed with a pastel striped belt at the waist and a long-sleeved, turtle-neck top, which is fashioned of a tangerine cotton knit.

ULTRA-SUEDE: An attractive shirt dress in forest green which is available in the boutique, is contoured of "ultra-suede," a completely washable blend of polyester and poly-urethane. The dress buttons down the front, is collared, and it has long cuffed sleeves.

The dress can be worn alone or with a brightly printed blouse to create the layered look when the dress is left unbuttoned at the neckline and the cuffs are rolled up.

Although the ensembles that we have described are displayed in the Poppy Shop the women's department at The Nebraska also has a wide variety of fashions for the mature women. They include versatile long dresses, sleeveless dresses with jackets and attractive polyester knit shirt dresses.

AT MAGEE'S

The wrapped look again will steal the fashion scene in coats for spring and summer. That particular style — with its V-neck, wide lapels, and loosely fitting belted appearance — will be in stiff competition, however, with the princess style which is returning in all of its dignity.

The newest trends in spring outerwear, according to our informants at Magee's are found among the exciting fabric blends. There are soft, man-made sueded which require little or no special care; there are striking cotton velveteens; there are delightful wool knits; and there are dazzling blends of mohair, nylon, and wool. In addition, we found a trend in the prints, which feature new and exciting checks and plaids.

ALL-WEATHER WEAR is one of the outstanding features of the cotton velveteen coats which are found in the deeper shades of magenta, green, brown, blue, and many more. This new fabric blend is light weight and water repellent, but also provides a classical, dressed-up look — completed by raglan sleeves, a large rounded collar, and much detail.

The modern velveteen also is employed in wrapped coats with oversized lapels, as well as with angled patch pockets and attractive ornamentations at the hemline.

THE WOOL KNITS come in a variety of styles — princess, wrapped, and detailed — but one feature rarely omitted is the belt. Most of the spring and summer coats found at Magee's are fully belted, while others have half-belts at the back.

FOR THE JUNIORS, we recommend the wrapped coats in the mohair, nylon, and wool blend. This particular style, featured in the contemporary shades of off-white and pink, has detail detail, and more detail, right down to the cuffs which also are belted.

THE LONDON FOG name has been the hallmark of quality in all-weather coats for decades — and now that manufacturer has developed an outstanding line of pant coats which also double as toppers for those shorter skirts.

One of our favorite pant coats was in tune with the times in its great amount of detail. In a powder blue all-weather cotton blend fabric, the coat was fashioned with attractive silver buttons which enhance the front — and the buttons are repeated to close the loops through which a wide waistline belt is threaded. This particular style also is available in an attractive yellow shade.

And then there was the wrap-around coat in a striking green and blue plaid. It was fashioned with wide lapels, attractive belted cuffs on the sleeves and large, rounded patch pockets.

The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North

West leads the seven of hearts, declarer playing low from dummy. What is your plan of defense?

♠ A73
♥ 10 5
♦ K108

1. Your first play should be the deuce of hearts, and if you make this play the contract is likely to go down. West's seven is obviously his fourth best heart, and it will hold the trick if you play the deuce on it. By ducking the seven you make it perfectly clear to partner that the reason you permitted him to win the trick was because you wanted him to shift to a club at trick two.

But if you were to win the opening lead with the jack of hearts, you would find yourself stymied after cashing the ace — if declarer's hand looked something like this:

♠ A 10 9 8 2
♦ 10 5 3
♣ 7 4 2

You would be unable to defeat the contract, whatever you returned, and sooner or later declarer's losing clubs would be deposited on dummy's diamonds.

2. Win the spade with the king and lead a low heart towards the ten. This guards against four trumps in either opponent's hand, which is the only holding that can jeopardize the contract.

Thus, if North has K-Q-9-8, he will make only two trump tricks, whereas he would make three if the first heart lead came from dummy. If South has all the missing trumps, he also will score only two trump tricks against this method of play.

Adoption Of Strict Code Of Judicial Ethics Urged

The Nebraska State Bar Association and members of the judiciary Thursday urged the Nebraska Supreme Court to adopt a more stringent Code of Judicial Ethics governing conduct of the state's judges.

The court had the revised conduct code under consideration on its own motion at a hearing Thursday and Chief Justice Paul White has said the code will most likely be adopted. Five states, including neighboring Colorado, have chosen to institute the same code which was drawn up by a special committee of the American Bar Association.

Among the changes which the code would make are:
—A judge must disqualify himself from a case if he has any financial interest in it. Previously, a judge only had to step down if he had a "substantial" interest.

—A judge can no longer offer investment advice to, any religious or other groups.
—A judge can no longer serve in any capacity in a private corporation.
—Judges must publicly report all assets.

—Judges, except those who must run on a ballot, cannot accept any political contributions.

In addition to the decision on adopting the code, the Supreme Court will have to decide just how strict it should be in restricting outside income for Nebraska's judges. The code has a note suggesting that if the state's judges are not adequately salaried that the restriction may be loosened.

Judge John Newton had some misgivings about the restriction. "It seems silly to me. I could own a farm and not create a conflict," he concluded.

Newton continued, "I have a first cousin. I'm her closest living relative. She insists I act as her executor. Under this I can't."

Another choice the court must make is whether to adopt any special penalties and procedures for a violation of the code if it is adopted. Van Pelt was not sure whether this would be needed since the court already has punitive control over bar members' conduct.

Newton continued, "I have a first cousin. I'm her closest living relative. She insists I act as her executor. Under this I can't."

Jury Awards Woman $107,500 In Connection With Fatal Crash

The widow of a man killed in a Dec. 30, 1971 auto accident on a county road near Bennet has been awarded $107,500 by a U.S. District Court jury.

Dorothy A. Gardner of Arkansas filed the suit in connection with the death of her husband, Darl Dean Gardner when he was a passenger in a car driven by Richard L. Meyers of Bennet which crashed into the rear of a grain trailer parked on the county road.

The suit alleged that Bill Anderson parked the grain trailer without sufficient marking.

The jury dismissed on merits a portion of the suit which had named Meyers as a defendant. Mrs. Gardner had originally asked $252,207 in damages.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

Actor Chad Everett, a Gemini, exemplifies the intellectual curiosity displayed by many born under this zodiacal sign. He recently told me of his interest in psychic phenomena, related subjects — and astrology. Another Gemini who has expressed fascination with "my" subjects is actor Vincent Price.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis on productive new deal which brings you greater benefits. Your efforts can be repaid if you are willing to shake off status quo. Leo is in picture. Joint effort leads to success. Get an accounting.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Deter judgment. You have choice of two directions. Key is to wait for counsel from one who has proved ability. Study track records. Avoid rushing. Read between lines where legal document enters picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emotions loosen you are able to reach beyond current situation. Dilemma will be resolved. Key now is to relax, to go with the tide. Expand. Accept social invitation. Broaden horizons. New contacts prove beneficial.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What you feel can now be expressed. There are restrictions but these act as challenges rather than actual obstacles. Stick to the practical despite temptation to do otherwise. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio are involved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strive for greater communication with family. One who cares much for you does not know how to talk to you. Realize this and help break the ice. Gemini, Virgo individuals figure prominently. Eliminate safety hazard from home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Relatives could be on the move. There are requests, messages, calls concerning neighbors, home appliances, luxury items. Taurus, Libra persons are apt to be in picture. Be diplomatic, but get basic points across in meaningful manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be selective. Don't jump at first offer. One who makes lovely promise may be deceiving. Ask for facts. Analyze information. Money is involved. Protect your interests. Cooperate with Virgo, Leo, and act on knowledge received.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This is power cycle. Assert yourself. You get needed backing. Older individual is in your corner. Know it and proceed accordingly. Assume financial responsibility. Investments now pay solid dividends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Round out project. Finish what you start. Look to future. You draw persons to you with their problems, questions. By lending helping hand you set stage for personal gain. Humanitarian approach spells success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on new, creative approach. One you are attracted to returns compliment. You feel better, more alive, dynamic. Highlight greater independence and humor. Self esteem returns. Be grateful. You are worthwhile — know it and act like it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Rise above the petty — you are in position to make significant strides. Look to individual whose past record is successful. Room will be made for you. Show that you can contribute. Be a self-starter.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Reach beyond current expectations. You will be surprised at favorable reception. Social contact can be transformed into meaningful professional assist. Sagittarian could play key role. Read and learn.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, vibrant, fond of travel, able to understand opposite sex. You complete major cycle, and August could be your most significant month of 1973. Your home life will be more stable. You attract to you many born under Gemini and Virgo. You are sensitive, versatile and artistic.

Discover your love and money mates! Send birthdate and 75 cents to Omarr Astrology Secrets, The Lincoln Star, Box 2240, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017. You'll find answers insidiously Omarr's booklet, "Secret Hints for Men and Women."

Cosell In Character

Anyone, who has ever watched Howard Cosell on Monday night football or interviewing Muhammad Ali, has to think of him as arrogant, self-centered and a bit Ivy Leagueish in his viewpoint on sports.

Howard Cosell is the perfect example of the guy, who says, "Last year, I had one fault. I was conceited, but this year I'm perfect."

You don't have to think much of Cosell because he thinks enough of himself to go around for everyone.

And Cosell doesn't come across that way only through the magic of your TV set. He comes across that way in person, also, as the 1,100 people, who had a $40 dinner in Omaha Wednesday night discovered.

The controversial TV commentator was at his best in relating how he had buried the other networks because of ABC-TV producer Boone Arledge's genius in picking him to head up the Monday night football telecasting crew.

"After hiring me as the key man," Cosell related, "Arledge went out and hired a Texas corpore (Don Meredith)."

Gifford For Jackson

The first year, Cosell continued, "Arledge hired Keith Jackson to give us someone, who understood the game."

"He rectified that situation the next year by replacing Jackson with Frank Gifford."

Noting that everyone in the TV industry laughed at ABC-TV for trying to buck prime time movies and other shows with Monday night football, Cosell pointed out that the first competition was Elizabeth Taylor in the movie Cat On A Hot Tin Roof.

"I left Taylor burning on that hot tin roof," Cosell modestly pointed out.

"Then one of the networks figured they'd beat us by moving All In The Family to Monday night. We chased All In The Family to Saturday night and we chased Carol Burnett to Thursdays."

Pulling himself away from his own talents, Cosell called the excitement that goes with a sports victory "a transitory thing."

Nothing So Fleeting

"I know you all got a big thrill out of Nebraska's win over Oklahoma a year ago Thanksgiving," he pointed out, "just as the fans of the winning Super Bowl teams do."

"But it's strictly a transitory thing. There's nothing so fleeting as victory in sports. Less than a year after Joe Namath had led the New York Jets to their Super Bowl win, the fans booed him in a game at Shea Stadium."

But as arrogant as Cosell can be, he virtually brought tears to the eyes of many of the $40 per plate diners as he recounted the things he best remembered from sports:

—Bill Toomey winning the most grueling of all sports events, the decathlon, in the 1968 Olympics despite a crippled arm

—Jackie Robinson's losing fight with diabetes that had cost him the sight in one eye and was causing blindness in the other at the time of his death and Cosell revealed that had Robinson lived another year, the disease was to have cost him both legs, "legs that made him the best baseball player in history at getting out of a rundown on the basepaths."

—The losing fights waged by Vince Lombardi and Fred Hutchinson against cancer that abruptly ended their highly successful coaching and managing careers in football and baseball, respectively.

Cosell is everything you've ever heard about him and he's also the best after-dinner speaker this writer has ever heard.

The most enthusiastic rooter for the new NU fieldhouse has to be Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano.

"We can get a lot of great kids sold on the Big Eight, the state of Nebraska and the university," he said. "But when he (the prospective player) looks at the place we play in (NU Coliseum), then we start to have trouble."

At Thursday's press briefing, NU sports information director Don Bryant brought an architect's drawing and a scale model of the fieldhouse.

Among the features of the new fieldhouse for basketball games will be 6,500 theater-type seats (the remaining 8,500 will be bleacher-type seats) and a wooden basketball floor.

With a target date of December of 1974, Cipriano said he "very definitely" has been telling athletes that are being recruited this winter that they may have three complete seasons to play in the new fieldhouse.

"When you're building a clientele of basketball fans, your fans look at the places they can sit, where they can park and things like that," Cipriano said. "But the kids look at the end result—how many people are there, what kind of an atmosphere you have."

"But the building itself is a hell of a thing for recruiting," he emphasized.

Cipriano said a recent study of potential basketball players in the Southwest Conference indicated that the team's arena was the top item of consideration by high school athletes.

Bryant added that among the first sites prospective football players are shown at Nebraska is 76,000-seat Memorial Stadium—the Big Eight's largest football stadium.

Although Cipriano refused to name any preppers high on the Husker priority list, he said there are two excellent Nebraska prospects.

He was referring to 6-5 Bob Siegel of Fairbury and 6-6 Rick Seidel of Sidney. Both are averaging nearly 30 points-per-game.

"But people have kept asking me why haven't you signed any players," he said. "We can't sign anybody until April 4 (the day the first national letters-of-intent can be signed)."

The Huskers, meanwhile, held a spirited practice Wednesday afternoon especially for a late February workout, Cipriano said.

Nebraska hosts Kansas at the NU Coliseum at 2:10 p.m. Saturday seeking to topple the Jayhawks for the third time this season. The Huskers last accomplished that in 1912, when they downed KU four times.

—KNIGHTS "OUT TO GET" EAST—

LSE Sets Goal For State Title

By Randy York
Prep Sports Writer

All season, Lincoln Southeast's swimming team has been "out to get East," admits Southeast coach Steve Nootz.

The Knights have been close, but haven't dented East's unbeaten status. Last chance for Southeast and its youth movement is this weekend in the state high school swimming championships at East's pool.

"Our kids are really getting up for it. I'm a firm believer in the big meets. We're going to reach our peak this weekend," says Nootz.

A superlative performance, according to Nootz, could put the Knights in position to challenge defending champion Omaha Westside and East for the team title.

"Swimming has finally arrived in Nebraska," declares Nootz. "There's no 100 per cent guarantee in this year's state meet like there's been in the past."

That applies to individuals as well as teams, according to Nootz.

"In the late 60's and even until last year," he explains, "kids could hold back in their specialties during prelims, then blow out the next day."

"But if anyone tries to do that this year," he predicts, "they may not even end up in the top six. This year will require an all-out effort both days."

Swimming preliminaries start at 10 a.m. Friday with diving competition slated to begin at 4 p.m. Finals in both swimming and diving start at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Nootz admits his team's title chances may rest "on if there's a lot of cutting out in the 200 and 400-yard freestyles."

"This may be the toughest state meet there's ever been," says Nootz, "and that means it may not be unusual if a state leader gets cut out of an event."

Southeast has Lincoln's only state leader in Doug Wilnes, who has churned the 50-yard freestyle in .22.0, a mark "which ranked second in the nation when he did it three weeks ago against Omaha Bryan," according to Nootz.

Fremont's precocious Jeff Evans is the recognized state leader in five of eight individual events, entering the state meet.

He, however, will be allowed to compete in only two individual events and a relay. "Everyone's wondering where Evans will swim," says Nootz.

Despite Evans' omnipresence, Fremont isn't expected to provide a solid team challenge. Omaha Benson, Omaha Burke, Hastings and Lincoln High rank behind East and Southeast in a consolidated bid to snap Westside's dominance. The Warriors are seeking a fourth straight state championship.

Southeast, which lost the close East dual "because of my own coaching mistake," according to Nootz, may be the power of the future.

"We're inexperienced. We only have four seniors on our 15-man varsity roster," points out Nootz, who relies heavily on seven sophomores.

Perhaps the state's best sophomore, Southeast's Eddie Johnson, could challenge for state titles in the 100 butterfly and the 200 individual medley.

Junior teammate Brian Magee "has just now gotten his strength back after being out a week with the London flu three weeks ago," according to Nootz. The butterfly and individual medley performer "always peaks around this time of the year."

Southeast senior Craig Kingery is another butterfly threat and teams with Wilnes, Johnson and Magee on a crack 400-yard freestyle relay which upset East in last weekend's city relay championships.

Lincoln High's Marc Stiner (diving) and Brad Grell (breaststroke) and East's Scott Martin (freestyles) and Norm Jackson (backstroke) appear to be the Capital City's other individual state championship threats.

Globetrotters' Branch Remembers Huskers

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Harlem Globetrotters Nate Branch hasn't forgotten coach Joe Cipriano's Nebraska basketball team.

"I saw in the paper that they're (KU) playing Kansas on Saturday and I think I'll stay and watch them," said the former NU standout during the 1964-67 era.

"That'll be the first Nebraska game I'll have seen since I left," he said. "I've seen them on television, but not in person. We play in St. Louis that night, but I can still make it (to the Globetrotter game) in time."

In Lincoln Thursday night for the Globetrotters' annual appearance in Pershing Auditorium, Branch said he keeps in contact with Cipriano by trying to aid the Huskers' recruiting program.

"I'm trying to help get a seven-footer from Redwood City, Calif.," said NU's seventh all-time leading scorer. "I talked to Joe while I was in Salt Lake City and we talked about the team."

Now in his sixth season with the touring squad, Branch said he spends the three non-playing months in San Francisco. He owns a night club there aptly named "The Trotters' Inn."

He now has a quintet combo band. During his playing days at Nebraska, he had "The Nate Branch Trio," which had numerous campus engagements.

Although he was drafted by the then Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association and the then San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association when he completed his collegiate eligibility, he failed to sign with either organization.

"I wanted to play for Oakland since it's just across the bay (from his hometown of Palo Alto)," Branch said. "But we couldn't agree on a contract and, by that time, it was too late (into the season) to sign with San Diego."

Field Of 12 To Run In Hialeah Turf Cup

Miami (AP) — A field of 12 horses, led by last year's winner, Calumet Farm's Gleaming, was drawn Thursday for Saturday's $100,000 Turf Cup at Hialeah.

Gleaming will be seeking to become the first horse in history to claim two victories in the 1½-mile turf race for 3-year-olds and up.

Yankees Sign Four

New York (AP) — First baseman Ron Blomberg, outfielder Ron Swoboda and two rookies—second baseman George Zeber and pitcher Rick Earle — have signed 1973 contracts, the New York Yankees announced Thursday.

Nate Branch
Former Husker

"I don't regret not turning professional," he said. "There's no high pressure of having to win every game with the Globetrotters and if I have a bad night, I don't have to worry about getting traded or having a lower contract."

Although the constant traveling (the team played earlier this week in Wichita, Kan. and Omaha) is somewhat tiresome, Branch said he accepts it as part of the job and is quite satisfied with the Globetrotters.

"I've found a home with the Globetrotters, but I always enjoy coming back to Nebraska," he said. "I saw Larry Loftus (the drummer in the old Trio) when we were in Omaha last night (Wednesday)."

"I guess you could say it's sort of like a pleasure trip when we come back here," he added. "I just hope I can bring the Huskers some good luck on Saturday."

LEA, Ed Board Trade Proposals

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Negotiators for the Lincoln Education Association and the Board of Education Thursday traded new proposals and then adjourned the third of the formal bargaining sessions to give each side an opportunity to study the information.

The negotiations session was opened with an LEA proposal which scaled back the teachers' requests for salary increases and death benefits.

An original LEA request for 8.3% overall salary increases was dropped back to 6.98%, and a previous request to increase the death benefit from the current $5,000 to $10,000 was lowered to $7,500.

Slight Alteration
The LEA also altered slightly its request for full school board payment of health insurance premiums.

After a half-hour caucus, the school board negotiators countered with an offer that would raise the original school board proposal from a salary increase averaging 4.4% to one averaging 4.66%.

The school board spokesmen, however, did not budge from an offer to increase health insurance premium contributions to $14.50 from the current $13.50, and it said the board considers unacceptable any further increase in the death benefit.

H. Sheldon Seeks Seat On Council

Harold Sheldon, 3630 X, filed for the City Council primary race Thursday.

Sheldon, an electrician with American Stores Packing Co., became the fifth person to file for the April 3rd primary race.

Sheldon said he is running because, "the little guy needs better representation on the council."

He said he favors stricter enforcement of zoning laws and a better street repair program. "We have a slipshod manner of zoning now," he said.

Additionally, he said he would funnel more money into the city's street improvement program, saying "the streets are fixed one day and chuckholes turn up the next."

He also advocated a crackdown on the number of people who register their cars in another county but earn wages in Lincoln.

"The working people are paying for their taxes," he charged.

The filing deadline for the city council race is March 14.

Burglars Take Drugs Valued Up To $5,000

Drugs estimated to have an illicit street sale of $3,000 to $5,000 were taken in a burglary Wednesday night at the Wagey Drug Store at 1701 Washington, according to Police Inspector Robert Sawdon.

Sawdon said the drugs, about 3,000 capsules and a small amount of a liquid drug, and $65 in cash were taken from a cabinet in the store.

Entrance to the drug store was apparently gained by breaking a padlock on a steel door leading to the basement.

superintendent for personnel and chief spokesman for the board, said the school board believes any further increase in the death benefit would constitute a move toward life insurance.

$5,000 Sufficient
Sawin said the board believes $5,000 is a sufficient amount to cover expenses related to a death.

A summary of the total costs of all the formal proposals of both sides indicates that the LEA request has dropped from an overall salary and fringe benefit increase of 9.91% to 8.74%, while the board has increased its offer from 4.5% to 4.76%.

Those figures, based on estimates of costs, include all associated costs figured on the basis of the teachers on the job in mid-December.

The figures include both automatic increments for extra experience as well as proposed increases in the salary schedule, assuming all those teachers return next fall.

$7,125 To Start
The latest school board proposal would set a starting wage for a beginning teacher of $7,125, compared with the current $6,950. The LEA's latest request seeks a base pay of $7,200.

Tentatively accepted by both sides, pending further clarification of meaning and agreement on language, are a number of items that will not substantially affect the cost of this year's settlement.

They include:
—a school board proposal to establish a joint task force to study alternative methods of teacher pay —an LEA request to establish a committee to study whether teachers should be paid over nine or 12 months
—a school board proposal to refer all cases of student-related assault of teachers to the district's compensation committee, with the understanding that teachers would lose no sick leave in such cases and that the committee has the authority to award teachers for damages to personal effects —a school board proposal to force a teacher to give up salary credit after 15 years if the teacher makes no effort to advance to the masters degree level.

The school board negotiators also offered Thursday to increase extra-standard pay schedules whatever percentage increase is finally accepted by both sides.

Extra-standard pay goes to teachers who take on extra responsibilities, such as for coaching or other additional duties.

Colossal Angus Ranch To Close

Minature (AP) — Colossal Cattle Co., is planning to cease its Black Angus purebred operation east of here by June, according to Bill Smith, company president.

Smith said the firm, which also operates ranches in Virginia and Texas, "did not have the amount of operating capital to run all the ranches. We have to reduce our operation to achieve a more solid financial base."

About 1,000 head of livestock will be transferred to the other ranches. Included in the herd is Canadian Colossal, the million-dollar bull which has been given credit for siring 20,000 calves during its 11 years.

Another 700 head of older bulls will be auctioned in April, and 1,800 acres of farmland will be auctioned in March. The company also owns 30,000 acres which are expected to be sold through negotiation.

Suit Against School Board Dropped

A suit in U.S. District Court in Lincoln against the Lincoln Board of Education and Supt. John Prashch has been dismissed at the request of the woman who brought it.

The woman, Dixie Tice, filed the suit in March, 1972, asking that she be rehired as a school teacher or be awarded compensatory damages.

According to the suit she resigned as an elementary school teacher in June 1970 because of pregnancy.

The suit alleged that the board's policy of granting pregnancy leave to tenured teachers but not to untenured teachers was discriminatory.

The suit also alleged that school officials refused to hire her because she signed an affidavit in May 1970 on behalf of a student who was suspended from school for an alleged violation of a dress code.

Mrs. Tice asked that the suit be dismissed because she no longer wants a job with the Lincoln Public Schools.

State Colleges, Tech Schools Protest Proposed Budget Cuts

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Representatives of the state colleges and the technical community colleges told the Legislature's Appropriations Committee Thursday in so many words that is a matter of life or slow death that their 1973-74 budgets be increased over Gov. J. James Exon's recommendations.

Technical community college officials complained that despite the rapid growth and demand for two-year educational programs the governor's recommendation for 1973-74 is 11.7% below the operating budget for the current school year and only 2% more than the 1971-72 budget.

Frank Kleager, of the Western Nebraska Technical Community College Board, said flatly, "There's no way with added services and enrollment that we could operate on this budget." Speaking for the State Colleges, Dr. William Brandenburg, president of Wayne State College, likened the effect of Exon's budget on future of his institution to the economic law of diminishing returns.

Exon's proposals, which would mean increased tuition, a cut in the faculties by 70 and decreased maintenance throughout the four-campus system, would start a downward spiral in the quality of education, he said. The colleges are already experiencing declining enrollment.

"Fewer faculty means we can't offer as many courses. And fewer courses means we can't attract the students," Brandenburg said.

The board of trustees of the colleges had agreed in their original budget request to share the faculty from 482 to 417 fulltime equivalent faculty members. Exon's recommendation is 391. In addition, the board's faculty salary requests were higher than Exon's on three of the campuses.

The proposed tuition increases were more disturbing to Dr. Brendan J. McDonald, president of Kearney State College, who said the "dramatic" increase would affect 60% of the students at his school.

The current tuition rate is $181.50 for residents, $335.50 for non-residents. Exon has recommended tuition be $232.50 for residents and $412.50 for non-residents. The board had favored $195 and $345, respectively.

Dr. Ed Smith, president of Chadron State College, estimated that 50% of the students at that school come from families earning $6,500 per year or less.

Hunting Sign Bill Advances

The Legislature's Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee Thursday sent to the floor a bill requiring smaller signs by landowners who wish to open their land to hunting by written permission.

The measure, LB284, was sponsored by Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook.

It was backed by the state Game and Parks Commission at Thursday's brief public hearing.

The bill would decrease from 18 inches square to 11 by 14 inches the maximum size of the permitted sign.

final vote was LB132, sponsored by the interim study committee on taxation. It was sent to the governor on a 45-0 tally.

The bill would impose a 3% collection fee on property taxes which would go into a special fund. Estimates place the amount of money to be gained at about $65,000.

The money would be used to pay for an ad valorem property tax advisory committee to the state tax commissioner as well as preliminary work on a uniform statewide appraisal manual for local assessors.

The bill to create the advisory unit, and the first step toward a major revamping, was approved by the lawmakers last week.

According to Sen. Jules Burbach, who headed the interim study unit, the manual and advisory unit are by no means the final answer to curing the ills of the property tax system. He has asked that the studies be continued.

Committee Holds Drunk Driving Law Bill

By United Press International

The Legislature's Public Works Committee was urged Thursday to plug the loopholes in Nebraska's comprehensive drunk driving law of 1971 by providing 30-day drivers license suspensions.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said that while the 1971 law did provide stiff penalties for drunk driving, ways have been found to get around them.

"The policy has been to get around the intent of the law by devising probation programs which really aren't probation programs at all," he said.

These probations, he said, under which there is no permanent record made of a drunk driving charge and thus no points are subtracted from a license, represent "grave loopholes."

As a result, he asked the committee to advance his LB290, which he claimed would "close up those loopholes completely."

The committee adjourned without action.

De Camp conceded that his measure as originally drafted would present serious problems for the City of Lincoln, where a comprehensive probation-rehabilitation program has been developed.

Thus, he asked an amendment be adopted which would exempt any county or municipality from the mandatory 30-day suspension as terms for probation if a program similar to the one in Lincoln is in operation.

The committee also heard and held a measure, LB269, sponsored by Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan, which would allow the 30-day suspension for any person convicted of driving 15 miles per hour over the posted speed limit.

Another bill held was Kearney Sen. Gerald Stromer's LB414, which would establish driver training requirements for traffic law violators.

Gold Soars To $87

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold soared $7 an ounce — a record for a single day's trading on European markets Thursday, and closed at all-time highs of $87 an ounce and more.

The gold rush sent nervous jitters through world money markets, where the U.S. dollar had a rough day. It declined in most centers, reaching its lowest levels in Zurich, Paris and Frankfurt since the U.S. currency was devalued 10 days ago.

So far, however, currencies were remaining within the range fixed after the dollar devaluation. The danger was that a continued gold-buying rush at current levels could eventually upset currency alignments again.

Last May, when the price of the metal stood at $51 an ounce, here experts were predicting a level of perhaps $85 by 1980. Less than a year later it was pushing toward $90 an ounce.

One London expert said the market had gone crazy. "I wouldn't really be too amazed if it reached $120 or something ludicrous before the market comes back to its senses."

Dealers agreed that the dollar devaluation left the value of paper money in a cloud of uncertainty and set off the gold buying rush. When the dollar was devalued, the price of gold here stood at $68.50 an ounce. It has risen a staggering $19 since, in little over a year. Normally the gold price changes only a few cents a week.

One London expert said in an interview that only $8 of this rise had been justified by the devaluation. D. O. Lloyd-Jacob, manager of Consolidated Goldfields of South Africa, which has extensive gold mining interests, termed the rest of the recent rise pure speculation. He said the price was rising because supplies are short and demand heavy.

According to Lloyd-Jacob, the Soviet Union is now selling gold "very carefully," by putting a ton or less on the market at a time. He made the comment after checking with top gold dealers in London and Zurich, the two major markets.

Lloyd-Jacob said the Soviet Union, which produces more newly mined gold than any other nation except South Africa, was substantially increasing the price each time it offered gold for sale.

Air Crash At Hebron Kills Man

Hebron (UPI) — The manager of the Hebron Airport was killed Thursday afternoon when the single-engine crop dusting plane he was piloting crashed nose first into a wheat field 40 feet from the air-port runway.

The Thayer County sheriff's office identified the victim as Dean Osher 52, Hebron, who also owned Osher's Flying Service.

Sheriff Jim Johnson said Osher was trying out a new Cessna 188 owned by Colby Ag Sales of Leota, Kan. Osher was using water in place of chemicals to test the plane's crop dusting equipment and was flying back and forth spraying the water when the crash occurred.

The cause of the crash was undetermined. Osher a veteran pilot who flew during World War II is survived by his wife, Harriett, and three daughters. Johnson said there was no fire upon impact, and the body was pinned in the wreckage. The plane was declared a total loss.

The plane was the second out of the airport which has crashed during the month. Earlier a Dresher man was killed when the plane he was piloting crashed near Washington, Kan.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
